School counselor's car burglarized; cancer-fighting tool is gone

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

BARLEY PARRISH
School counselor & cancer patient

Someone stole $5,200 worth of hope from Barley Parrish.

Friday afternoon, Parrish's car was burglarized in the Yolo High School parking lot on Westacre Road, while she was at her job as a school counselor. The thief made off with a "light beam generator" Parrish hoped might help her in her fight against advanced cancer. The unit resembles a computer, with a keyboard and an attached rectangular display including a monitor.

"I have stage four cancer, and I purchased this thing called a 'light beam generator' because I just found out I was becoming resistant to the chemotherapy they were giving me," said an obviously-distressed Parrish from her home on Monday. "It cost $5,200. It's supposed to break up tumors and so forth. It's 'alternative medicine', so I don't know if it works. But it gives me hope."

Parrish's breast cancer has metastasized, spreading to her lymph nodes and other organs. She remains on the job at Yolo High, the local alternative high school.

The theft occurred "between about 12 and 12:45" on Friday afternoon, she believes. "Someone broke a window on my car and took it out. I would normally have put it in the trunk, but it was so big, I had to leave it in the car itself."

Coworkers have posted flyers asking for the return of the device. A reward is offered.

Parrish just hopes to get the equipment back – no questions asked.

Anyone with information may call Parrish on her cell phone, (916) 835-6364.

Hits from 1960s storm back to West Sac

Remember "Leader of the Pack?" Or "River Deep, Mountain High?" Or "Be My Baby?"

Performers from River City High School's drama department and the West Sacramento Community Theater Company know those tunes. The two troupes will join in a song and dance review called "Leader of the Pack," based on hits written by Ellie Greenwich in the early 1960s. The review opens Friday, with tickets priced at $10 for adults and $6 for seniors (over 55) and for students.

Performances are March 10, 11, 17 & 18 at 8 p.m., with matinees March 11 and 18 at 2 p.m. All shows will be at the Yolo High School's auditorium, 920 Westacre Road.

For tickets, contact RCHS drama teacher Brandon Duff at the school, visit Southport Coffee (1350 Harbor Blvd., next to Quizno's), call 491-1085, or try your luck at the door.

CAST & CREW of 'Leader of the Pack', as they ready for rehearsal on Monday. Production staff members include the community theater company's director Cindy Schmidt and artistic director Phillip Stommel, the River City High Drama Department teacher Brandon Duff, and cast members Christiana Loew, Josiah Richards, Meagan Morrison and Victoria Parks -- among many others.

Cement, oil tanks —

The commissioners of the Port of Sacramento last Wednesday approved a couple of items that may become central to the West Sacramento facility's future operations.

They approved a lease with A&A Ready Mixed Concrete, Inc., which plans to build a facility for cement distribution at the port.

And they extended a negotiation agreement with Wickland Oil. The ultimate objective is to relocate petroleum product storage tanks operated by Wickland and by other distributors currently on both the West Sacramento and Sacramento sides of the river, to a new location near Industrial Blvd. in West Sacramento.

Crawford: 'Friend' of the year

By Phyllis Runyan
West Sacramento Friends of the Library

At the 45th annual dinner of the West Sacramento Friends of the Library, longtime West Sacramento resident Margaret Crawford was named Friend of the Year for 2006. Mrs. Crawford, as president of the Friends, presided at the dedication ceremony of the present library and has remained busy with library projects ever since. She also serves as East Yolo's representative on the Yolo County Library Advisory Board.

Also at the dinner the current slate of officers of the West Sacramento Friends of the Library were unanimously re-elected to serve another year. The are Mark Johannessen, president; Kristie Holton, vice-president; Su Sesso, secretary; and Larry Wyneken, treasurer.

The Executive Board of the Friends meets at the Arthur F. Turner Library on the last Wednesday of the month at 5:30 p.m. All interested people are invited to attend.

Log-sawing marks store opening

The new 265,000 square foot IKEA home furnishings store opened amid fanfare last Wednesday, near Reed Avenue and I-80. The festivities included a ceremonial "log sawing" (a tradition imported from IKEA's Swedish homeland). Sawing the log were (above) West Sacramento Mayor Christopher Cabaldon and IKEA store manager Heini Roikjer and IKEA North America President Pernille Lopez.

The first hundred people in line to shop received a free office chair apiece. The third person in line was West Sacramento's Johnny Vela, who had camped in front of the store since Feb. 11 and was rewarded with a $1,000 gift certificate. Glenn Reynolds of Massachusetts had camped for 21 days, to become the first in line and earn a $3,000 gift certificate.

As the first customers walked in, they drew an enthusiastic round of applause from the "coworkers" on IKEA's local staff.

Proposed charter school: 'first in family' for college

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A proposed "Early College Charter School" is courting West Sacramento.

The charter school, proposed by a partnership involving the education department at UC Davis, Sacramento City College and Aspire Public Schools, hopes to open a school for grades seven through 12 somewhere in West Sacramento, with about 60 students at each grade level. The school's focus would be on teaching young people who hope to be the first in their families to attend college.

David Tooker, interim superintendent of Washington Unified School District, has invited the partners to make a presentation to the school board at tomorrow night's board meeting (7 p.m. on Thursday, at Golden State Middle School).

"I wanted to bring it to the board so they can give us some direction – whether to put it on the front burner, the back burner or whatever they desire," said Tooker yesterday.

Tooker said that a "charter school" is one approved by a local district to offer a special educational focus.

"Back in around 1991, the legislature passed some provisions that allow for charter schools," said Tooker. "Charter schools are public schools, but because of the way they're put together, they operate differently. Many of us say that education codes are really onerous, and prevent us from doing things that make good sense. The notion of charter schools is that if we're not burdened by some of these provisions – some but not all of the provisions – then we can do a better job."

To get a charter school going, he added, "people write up what they want to do and establish that they're not going to be a burden to the district, and take that proposal to the district."

The resulting school is then funded with the same money that would pay for the pupils' education if they went to a standard public school.

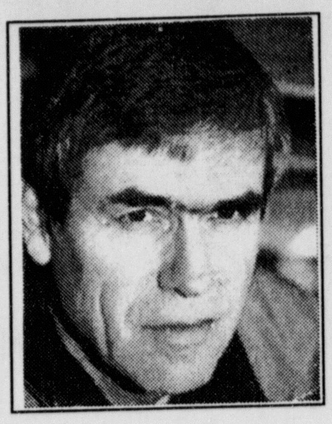

The focus of the newly proposed school is apparently "to try to find better ways to prepare (young people) for college," said Tooker. The target would be kids from families who haven't sent someone to college before.

The district has dropped plans to help open a charter school at the "Rivers" subdivision in the city's north, and also dropped plans to open an elementary school there.

The proponents for the "Early College Charter School, include UC Davis, which is presumably "looking for different ways to educate students"; Sacramento City College, which has an interest in developing students for entry to the college system; and Aspire Public Schools, which operates several other charter schools, said Tooker.

The real reasons we watch the Oscars

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

Late last Sunday afternoon, as I plopped down in my easy chair and began searching high and low for the television remote control, I was suddenly informed by my wife and daughter that I wouldn't be needing it on that particular evening.

"And just why is that?" I asked with interest, wondering how I could possibly hope to flip back and forth between all the different news and weekend cable sports wrap-up shows without my beloved TV clicker.

"Because the Academy Awards are starting in a few minutes and we're going to be watching it for the next three or four hours," explained my daughter matter-of-factly.

"But I hate award shows!" I cried out.

"Too bad," said my daughter without even the slightest trace of pity, "because you're definitely going to be watching one tonight."

"But that silly thing will go on all night long," I exclaimed.

"Trust me," my daughter assured me, "it won't go on any longer than one of those stupid baseball or football games you're always watching."

"The actual show is usually only a little over three hours long and doesn't even start for another hour," volunteered my wife.

"Well," I said, calming down a bit, "I guess I'll at least be able to watch a few of my programs before the darn thing begins."

"No you won't," my daughter informed me, "because the Oscar Countdown is going to start in a few minutes."

"What in the world is the Oscar Countdown?"

"That's when all the stars get interviewed and you also get to see what they are wearing when they walk down the red carpet," explained my wife.

"We have to spend a whole hour listening to what all those overpaid egomaniacs have to say, too?" I asked.

"Movie stars aren't all egomaniacs," said my daughter, "and sometimes they give very thoughtful and interesting interviews."

"No they don't," I said. "They just go on and on about their so-called craft and how much research and artistic ability went into standing in front of a camera and saying a bunch of words someone else wrote for them. I mean, if Lassie and King Kong can be movie stars, how difficult can it be?"

"Stop your whining," said my wife. "You'll live through watching the Oscars tonight."

And so I did, but just barely. And what really surprised me was how out-of-the-loop I have apparently become when it comes to knowing what is being viewed in the movie houses around the country nowadays. Of the five nominated movies for best picture ("Brokeback Mountain," "Capote," "Crash," "Good Night and Good Luck," and "Munich"), I had seen exactly none of them. Plus I didn't know very many of the actors and actresses who were up for the major awards, either.

When I mentioned this to my daughter she said, "That's because the only movies you ever watch are those old black and white film noir things they have on late-night TV. And do you really want to know why you don't care who wins any of the Oscars this year?"

"Why?"

"Because Cary Grant and Grace Kelly, and Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman, and Gregory Peck and Audrey Hepburn aren't nominated!"

Actually, as things turned out, I ended up spending approximately four hours in more or less total ignorance of what was really going on in front of my eyes. If truth be told, with only a few exceptions, my wife and daughter didn't care who won or lost an Oscar much more than I did. What seemed to truly interest them was such things as a "vibrant canary-yellow chiffon gown" and a "empire-waisted frock" and an "ornate Versace" and an "off-the-shoulder corseted ball gown" and a "sexy asymmetrical Vera Wang dress" and Nicole Kidman in an "ivory embroidered Balenciaga" (not to mention the millions of dollars of dangling earrings and other expensive accessories that were on display).

Anyway, when I mentioned my Sunday night of torture to a male friend of mine he said, "Well, at least your wife and daughter seemed to have enjoyed the fact that all the movie stars were trying to look their best at the Oscars. My wife, on the other hand, can hardly wait for Joan and Melissa Rivers to start tearing them apart for looking like crap."

"Well," I said, "I guess it's a female thing or something, caring who is wearing what. As for me, Reese Witherspoon could have strolled down that red carpet in a potato sack and still looked hot."

"Yeah," said my friend, "for us guys, it's never really about what kind of a dress a woman is wearing."

"Exactly!" I agreed.

"For us guys," he added, "it's about what's inside the dress."

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

By Richard Novoa

Just when you thought it was safe to watch another sport the NFL jumps back into the media limelight. The NFL's labor negotiations between the owners and players were postponed again for the third time until this Thursday. The new time frame will allow the billionaire owners and the millionaire player's to fight over how to split the revenue from their popcorn sales. The owners are deciding whether they want to split 59 ½ percent of the revenue with the players. Now it's up to the 32-team owners to decide the future of the NFL. Do we play football or go on strike again? Don't worry football fans the owners remember the NHL fiasco last year! Where's Terrell Owens when you need someone to negotiate contracts?

The new salary cap will affect veteran players like Raiders quarterback, Terry Collins, who will be looking for new employment next season. The Raiders are $15 million over the salary cap and Collins is worth about $9 million of that figure. NFL Teams must stay under the $94.5 million salary cap. Even if the stingy owners and the greedy players do come to an agreement by Wednesday night, Mr. Collins is toast in Oakland.

Kings Korner

The Kings (29-31) are inching closer to the .500 mark and are making a serious run at the eighth and final playoff spot. The Sac Town boys are starting to enjoy themselves on the court and with 22 games remaining in the season the playoffs are now within reach. Kings fans have been spoiled for so many years with automatic playoff teams. Now we have to adjust to viewing each and every game as a crucial playoff game. Now Kings fans the fun begins!

The key for the Kings playoffs run is winning games away from the friendly confines of the Arco Arena. Sacramento still has 10 road games. The Kings will travel to Indiana, Minnesota, Los Angeles, Utah, Portland and Golden State in the month of March. In April they must win at least two of the four away games between the Mavs, Spurs, Clippers and Nuggets.

At home the Kings will still have 11 games but the last two games of the season will be against New Orleans with the season finale on April 18th against Seattle. I predict that the last game of the season on April 18th against the Sonics will be playoff clincher!

The Kings must also stay healthy if they expect to make a serious run at the playoffs. Bonzi Wells has returned to the team and will be coming off the bench as the sixth man, which will give, added time to heel his bad groin muscle. Francisco Garcia (sprain left ankle) is the only injury the Kings suffered during their hugely successful road trip.

Winning 3 out 4 games on this road is a positive sign and warning to the other teams in front of them like New Orleans, Los Angeles, and Memphis. The Kings now must continue moving up the playoff ladder and not look back at the Jazz, Rockets, Timberwolves or Warriors who will be trying to gain ground on Sacramento.

As of Tuesday the Kings are only 1 ½ behind the eighth place Lakers. The Kings will return home with a must win game on Friday against Memphis (7 p.m.-CSN). On Sunday night the boys will meet up with the unbeatable Dallas Mavericks (6 p.m.-CSN). I think you have to Tivo the Soprano's season premiere on Sunday night and watch the Kings upset the Mavs. Guess who's coming to town next Tuesday (7 p.m.-ch.10) night? You guessed it! It's the Kobe Bryant show and his band of Lakers!

World Baseball Classic

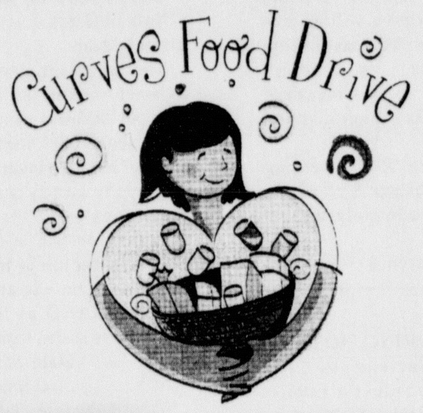

The United States roster has been finalized and it looks like the rocket man, Roger Clements will lead Team USA into the World Baseball Classics. Team USA will field a few stars like Alex Rodriquez, Derek Jeter, Chipper Jones, Mark Teixeira and Sacramento's Derrek Lee.

The United States first game will be on Tuesday against Mexico. The Red, White and Blue is in the easy bracket with Mexico, Canada and South Africa. The top two teams advance to the second round next week in Anaheim.

On a sad note, baseball Hall of Famer and six-time gold glove winner Kirby Puckett died on Monday at the young age of 45, from a stroke. Puckett baseball career was cut short by glaucoma in 1995. Selected by the Twins in the amateur draft in 1982 Puckett accomplished a feat that many players these days will never be able to emulate and that is to play your whole major league baseball career with just one team!

Enjoy your day – see ya next week!

RAIDER ROUNDUP

A look at River City High sports

By Troy Turner

Varsity Boys Baseball

The varsity boys baseball team played two pre-season games last week, against Florin and Sacramento high schools. The Florin game was close, but the Raiders scored two runs late in the game to hang on for a 6-3 win.

The next day, the faced the Sacramento Dragons, easily winning by a score of 14-3. This week, the Raiders face Mesa Verde and Pioneer High.

JV Boys Baseball

The boys' junior varsity team also faced Florin, losing a close game 2-0. They came back the next day and took out their frustrations on Sacramento High for a 17-0 win.

They face Monterey Trial, Mesa Verde and Pioneer this week.

Girls Varsity Softball

River City High's varsity softball team is now 1-0, beating Woodland Christian in the first game of the season.

They will try to maintain that perfect record as they face Colfax High School and participate in the Argonaut Tournament.

Girls Varsity Soccer

The varsity girls team is now 1-1 as they beat Capital Christian last week 3-2. This week, they play in the Lincoln Tourney.

Girls JV Schedule

The girls junior varsity soccer team did not play this week, because Capital Christian doesn't have a j.v. squad. The RCHS team plays in the Lincoln Tourmanent this week.

Fast start for RCHS tennis team

From RCHS

The River City High School tennis team has an unblemished 4 win, no loss record to start the 2006 season. First week victories against relatively inexperienced teams from Whitney (8-1) and Calaveras (9 to 0) were followed by a pair of road wins last week. In San Andreas, against Bret Harte, the Raiders escaped by a narrow 4 to 3 margin. Seniors Vu Tran (#1 girls singles) and Ou Saejao (#2 boys singles) led the way while the boys doubles team of Michael Soto and Brandon Yip and the mixed doubles pair of Anna Bouttavong and Kehoua Saechao post posted 8-0 shutouts.

On Friday, the Raiders traveled south to take on Escalon and emerged with a 6 to 0 win. Tran and Saejao again won in their positions to stake R.C. to a 2-0 lead before a hailstorm interrupted play for about 45 minutes. After drying the

LETTERS from p. 7

Area Council of Governments (SACOG) will meet at 5:30 p.m. in the West Sacramento City Hall (1110 West Capital Avenue) to hold a public hearing on unmet public transit needs (YoloBus). Unmet public transit needs for West Sacramento include:

1. Providing midday and later bus service for our Southport and Industrial Park area, especially in the light of expanded Southport development and our new Ikea furniture store.
2. More benches and shelters at neighborhood stops. Strategic location and seating should result in the greatest protection from extreme heat and stormy weather.
3. Like Sacramento's Regional Transit, YoloBus should allow riders over 75 to ride free. Not only would this cause more such riders to shop more often from Sacramento, but also far fewer of our over-75 riders would opt to do all of their shopping there.
4. Finally, our city council members should provide an essay describing why it would be too inconvenient for each of them to ride the bus (only) for a year, especially while escorting a frail rider during such time.

See you March 8th at 5:30 p.m., prior to the city council meeting at city hall.

Urban forester

Dena Kirtley, the City of West Sacramento's tree program specialist, has completed training in the first-ever Municipal Forester Institute.

The institute aims to teach urban forestry leaders.

Well-maintained urban treescapes help lower crime rates, improve air quality, control local climate and reduce stormwater runoff, according to the Society of Municipal Arborists, a partner in the institute.

Training was a week long for Kirtley at the institute.

Pre-school

"First 5 Yolo" has received $500,000 in new funding to develop a University Pre-Kindergarten (UPK) program in West Sacramento. The funds add to $700,000 previously awarded to the organization from state tobacco tax money.

The organization aims to make available a place in an educational preschool program for every local four-year old whose family wants to participate.

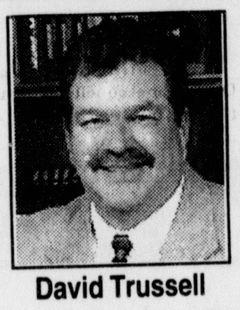

"With this new infusion of money, many more working families in need of extended care will be able to send their children to pre-kindergarten, giving them a greater opportunity for school success," said Helen Thomson, Yolo County Supervisor and chair of the First 5 Yolo Commission.

Q: What are rates doing? Are they going up? What will rates be in 6 months? How can I guarantee my rate/payment for the long haul?
A: "moving", "yes/no", "I don't know", fixed rate"
These are daily questions we get in the mortgage industry. It is safe to say we can forecast a "RANGE" that rates will be within the coming days, weeks, and maybe even a month out, but past that...well lets just say the glass ball gets kinda fuzzy....
Nobody can truly predict what rates will do, only very good educated guesses. Even the people who decide what the rates are can't predict what rates are going to do farther out than "really" that day. So every rate is good, especially when rates are moving up, then you can say, "well at least I got in, in time", and if rates go down, then you always have the ability to refinance. Mortgage rates are incredibly sensitive to the borrower and their specific situation. It is safe to say that each and every borrower is different. They have different jobs, different credit, different debt, different credit scores, different houses, different savings, and just simply different circumstances. Because of everybody's different circumstances, their mortgage program may be different then, say...their next-door neighbor, or a co-worker. Every loan program has its own unique rate parameters.
No matter what unique situation you are in, you should never be paying more than one to two points for a loan, plus normal closing cost, and if all possible you should always avoid any pre-payment penalty, (if possible). After that, the rate you choose will be determined on your circumstance.
To learn more about what loan programs you may be eligible for, feel free to call our office and talk to one of our loan consultants who can sift through the many loan programs available to you.

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Choosing a WUSD 'CEO'

Several folks, both on and off the school board, lobbied heavily last month for a "superintendent selection committee" made up largely of local parents.

Certainly, parents and residents need to be a major part of the committee. But the major function of the committee is to spot a potentially good C.E.O. for Washington Unified School District. Committee members need to see through the "phonies" among the applicants, and set aside a candidate who is merely a "good interview" from one who is truly a "good candidate." Some familiarity with top-level management and leadership are a plus for the committee's members.

Parents and local residents ought to hold seats on the committee, and they will. Many of them will bring relevant skills as well as sincere concerns. But it's also important to target some folks who really know management at the top, who understand bureaucracies and who have some familiarity with the landscape and behaviors involved in executive recruitment.

The committee will seat 14 people, chosen partly at random, to fill slots for residents, teachers, administrators and local professionals. But there would have been nothing wrong with a greater focus on people with top management expertise. Appointment of representatives of a few high officials from other school districts, or from the top of West Sacramento's city government, might have added a lot of value to the committee.

The bottom line is: this is about management.

Add this to the list of things you need to try, and also to the list of things that prove the News-Ledger's editor has too much free time on his hands:

"Google Earth."

Beginning at www.google.com, you can follow a link that lets you download free software and use the internet to look at satellite photos of just about any address. Urban locations – like West Sacramento – tend to be pictured in fairly high resolution, to the point that you will probably zoom in and be able to spot that tree in your backyard or, if you're lucky, your car in your driveway (the pictures do seem to be just a few years old).

Once you've examined your home and office from above, go ahead and use the "search" mechanism to call up a picture of other addresses of interest – relatives' homes, vacation spots or childhood haunts.

A high-speed internet connection will help.

What? No computer? No problem – you've just found one more reason to visit your local library, at 1212 Merkley Avenue.

Letters to the Editor

WUSD superintendent search

Re: The announcement that WUSD is looking for 12 candidates to form a Superintendent Selection Advisory Council lists criteria covering possibly 14 separate positions seems par for the course. It's interesting to note that the first seven positions listed are all public union employees who will be tasked with choosing their boss. The next five positions are made up of parents; one each from the North, Core, and Southern areas of the city, plus one from the middle school and one from the high school. Plus two "representatives" from either the "business and/or (I wonder which) public agency" who must reside in West Sacramento. My best guess is that most likely, of the first seven, only the "one classified employee" -- that would be janitorial, cafeteria, maintenance, or crossing guard -- will be a resident of our city. Of the next five, one hopefully assumes that they would all be (legal) residents. The addition of the last two (totaling 14 possible) unnumbered candidate positions seems to be rife with preordained outcomes.

Consider: If, of the five parental positions, one is taken by another public employee union member and one is taken by someone related either by business or relationship to another of the eight possible members watering at the public trough, what do you think the value of the vastly outnumbered remaining parents' opinions (they who have the greatest stake in all of this, their children's future) will be? And they wonder why we question the methods of their madness.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF Erma Catherine O'Hara
CASE NUMBER PB06-52

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Erma Catherine O'Hara:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Cheryl K. Steuer in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Cheryl K. Steuer be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on April 11, 2006, at 8:30 a.m. in Dept. 11, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 812 Court St., Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.

"Date Movie"

Running time: 90 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

Early in the film, Alyson Hannigan's character is getting her teeth flossed by her therapist (don't ask), and he pulls out a chicken wing from between her teeth. Her therapist then exclaims, "A chicken wing!"

That's how stupid "Date Movie" is. It is a stupid movie made for people so stupid they need the sight gags explained to them.

As you've probably surmised from the TV ads, "Date Movie" is allegedly a spoof of romantic comedies done a la the "Scary Movie" series. In fact, "Date Movie" was made by two of the six writers of "Scary Movie" — which makes it one-third as funny, if my math is correct.

Hannigan stars as Judith Jones, a lovesick waitress in a Greek diner owned by her black-Indian-Japanese-Jewish-Greek family. While waiting tables one day she meets foppish Brit Grant Fonckyerdoder (Adam Campbell), which sets up a "Bridget Jones' Diary"/"My Big Fat Greek Wedding"/"Hitch"/"Meet the Parents" convoluted spoofatorium that'll have you using your popcorn barrel as an air-sickness bag before the first 20 minutes have passed.

Other movies are spoofed, like "Say Anything," "The Wedding Planner," "When Harry Met Sally" (guess which scene?), but all of them fall flat.

Alyson Hannigan, Sophie Monk

Apparently the filmmakers felt it was enough if you just got the movie reference, rather than spend a little time actually writing a joke. And as I mentioned above, the few attempts at originality the movie does proffer are undercut by having the characters explain the joke to you.

Don't see it in the theater. Don't wait for the rental. "Date Movie" is one of the worst comedies ever made.

CELEBRITY extra
by Evelyn Green

Q: Whatever happened to Julie Hagerty, who was so wonderful in the "Airplane" movies? Has she given up her acting career? — Annette M.

A: She has not. Hagerty keeps busy with projects that interest her, and she obviously found one among Fox's new offerings for the upcoming season in "Becoming Glen." Look for Hagerty to play Glen's mother in the series.

Q: Years ago, there was a big story about a United States Marine and a Saudi princess who fell in love, but she had to sneak out of Saudi Arabia to marry him. Whatever happened to them? Are they still married, and is it true that her life was threatened because she married a non-Muslim? Also, a woman I work with is from Yemen, and she said the story is completely false. — Adriana R.

A: The marriage ended when the princess — who was from Bahrain, incidentally, not Saudi Arabia — decided she missed the royal lifestyle after five years of living in America, and went home to her family. Although there were reports of death threats from Muslim fundamentalists when she eloped with her Christian boyfriend, she and her family did not acknowledge them. The story was largely suppressed in much of the Middle East, including Yemen, and it was only after it became the subject of a TV movie that some people learned about it from watching smuggled tapes of the film.

Q: In an episode of "Criminal Minds" (CBS), Mandy Patinkin called the meaning of his character's name, Gideon, significant. My 8-year-old son's new teacher is named Gideon, so I thought I'd ask you what the significance is? — Bernadette L.

Mandy Patinkin

A: Gideon is Hebrew for "mighty warrior." The Biblical Gideon was able to win many battles against large armies because of his planning and his faith. Patinkin's character on "Criminal Minds" often deals with cases that may seem insoluble, but, like his Biblical namesake, he uses his intelligence and his resolve to solve them.

Q: How can shows like "Law & Order" say their episodes are not based on actual cases, when most of them are exactly like the stories you read in the newspaper? Please explain this to me. — Michael S.

A: Shows like the "Law & Order" franchise, and others, will say their stories are inspired by the headlines — with "inspired" being the operative word. The shows typically stay with the story's theme, but use dramatic license to change certain aspects to keep it from being a carbon copy of the original.

Entertaining With the Sopranos
as compiled by Carmela Soprano
(Warner Books, $29.95)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

When "The Sopranos Family Cookbook" was published four years ago, it was a runaway hit and even topped the New York Times list of bestsellers. The latest effort, which is being released just in time to mark the show's sixth season premiere, promises to be equally popular.

Reminiscent of the first book, "Entertaining With the Sopranos" is a complete guide to good food and hosting the perfect event. The advice and information are served up with intimate vignettes, sidebars, stories and ruminations on food, friends and togetherness.

Some of the more interesting recipes are Goodootz Giambotta, a hearty zucchini stew; a delicious traditional Cannelloni; and Carmela's Lasagne With Basil Leaves. The dishes are guaranteed to bring tears of joy to the eyes of even a hardened gangster.

From graduation parties to holiday gatherings, Carmela suggests how to pick just the right location, decorations, music and even drinks for the occasion. The book also contains dozens of illustrations gleaned from the television series and insightful commentaries from various cast members and intimates.

For example, for those unsure about wine, Artie Bucco, proprietor of the renowned Nuovo Vesuvio restaurant in Newark, N.J., advises that if you have steak, think red, as in a nice robust California Burgundy. Planning a wedding? No problem. Camela's sister-in-law, Janice Soprano Baccvilieri, suggests that guests might enjoy a wishing well where they could deposit gifts or deep thoughts about life and love.

As Carmela writes, "What's closer to a celebration of life than celebrations?" Indeed, and her new guide makes even the trickiest occasion a snap.

(The fictional Carmela Soprano is identified on the book jacket as a wife, mother and homemaker who lives in North Caldwell, N.J.)

Books reviewed in this column are available online or at your local bookstore.

HOLLYWOOD ... Come May, Cherilyn Sarkisian LaPierre will turn 60, and she looks just great. Cher is wearing her hair long long, parted down the middle, very very straight and very very blonde. What she loves to do most, after showbiz, is buying, tearing down and fixing up properties. Her main digs are at Malibu down by the ocean, but she just paid $4.8 million for a penthouse at the posh Sierra Towers on Sunset Boulevard. From here she can see all of L.A. However, she plans to gut it and redecorate from scratch. Among her neighbors are Lindsay Lohan, Matthew Perry and the Robert Ellis Millers.

Do you know who Charles Lutwidge Dodgson was? He was the writer who changed his name to Lewis Carroll and gave us "Alice in Wonderland," one of the most famous books of all time. Now, rocker Marilyn Manson is making a movie about the weird life of the writer, calling it a "gothic tale." Manson will play Dodgson, and 17-year-old British supermodel Lily Cole is playing Alice. What do I think of all this? NO COMMENT!

George Clooney captivated everyone when he appeared at the Berlin Film Festival to talk about "Syriana." All the Fraus and Frauleins wanted to hug and kiss George, and I don't blame them. If I were a wee bit younger he would still be running! I love Clooney. He's smart, funny, sexy, talented, handsome and self-deprecating. He's the Clark Gable of today, wouldn't you say?

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento River registered five feet six inches at the Southern Pacific bridge yesterday.

Farmers along the river south of West Sacramento headquarters are clearing off brush and other impediments on the levee road so that during the summer season there will be a clear passage-way as far south as River View. This stretch of waterfront is a favorite place for sportsmen who enjoy fishing and many a good mess of cat-fish, shad and even salmon have been landed there. Besides the willows along the stream afford splendid shade in the heat of the summer and these willows will not be interfered with by the farmers who are clearing the levee for the roadway. O. E. Vantassel is doing the work of clearing and it is possible that as soon as this is done the crown of the levee will be graded by the Reclamation District No. 900 as a further step toward improving the road. Supervisor Buckingham has lent encouragement to the farmers by way of a tentative promise that if the clearing and grading is done by the landholders along the river he will see to it that sufficient gravel is secured to place the road in a permanently improved condition. This will be a great advantage to residents at this side of the river, especially the farmers along this side of the stream as well as to all comers who seek enjoyment in fishing and camping in the cool shade during the summer months.

The deep well that is being sunk at West Sacramento headquarters reached a depth of 776 feet yesterday at which point the drillers believe that they have succeeded in getting a wonderful clear supply of water, but nevertheless they will continue on down to adepth of about 800 feet. When a depth of 800 feet will be reached a large pump will be installed to clean out the drilling material but in the meantime the supply of water seems to be so plentiful there seems no doubt the well can supply any future need of a large population in the district. West Sacramento officials believe that as soon as the well is completed the McAnulty Corporation and its officers will go ahead with their plans of the improvement of the West Sacramento District.

McNally and Partridge in the West Side Auto Camp continue to ship mushrooms from the district to various large centers of population where there is a big demand. Mushrooms have been shipped to Salt Lake, Denver, Chicago, and New York with splendid returns from those centers of population where a fresh mushroom is a novelty at this time of the year. McNally and Partridge are astonished at the demand that comes to them for the fungus but yet when the thought recurs that Eastern states are now under a blanket of snow it is not surprising that the demand for fresh mushrooms should be active at this time of the year.

Jack Sullivan or some dope fiend giving that name, was arrested last Wednesday by Roy Jones of the narcotic squad and Constable Frank Wilson. In his possession was found a small quantity of morphine which he evidently intended to dispose of to some of the dope fiends who are going to early graves through the medium of the Volstead law. Sullivan was sent to Woodland for 90 days by Judge Barry in an effort to clear him of the terrible bad habit of consuming dope.

Lily Van Deren has returned from Winnemucca, Nevada where she spent the last month visiting with her sister, Ida. She declares that the weather has been extermely cold in the pine nut state and although it feels cold in California the temperature is nothing compared to what it is in Nevada.

The Washington volunteer fire department was called out last Wednesday evening about five oclock to extinguish a flame that had been started in the home of A. Flores on Second street. It seems that Flores was filling a gasoline lamp with a lighted candle standing close by to render light. The evaporating gasoline caught fire from the live flame of the candle and communicated to the open lamp. Immediately there was an explosion but Flores made an attempt to throw the lamp out of the window, but unfortunately, hit the wall, scattering gasoline all over the room. The family made an attempt to extinguish the flames and did so successfully although a great pile of clothing was burned and ruined in subduing the gasoline flames on the floor of the home. When the volunteer fire department arrived at the scene the flames were extinguished.

The Blue Goose Gun club closed its club house and its grounds for the season yesterday, January 16th, the date specified for the closing of the duck season. The season was not a very profitable one for the promoters of the club, but arrangements have been made so that next year they can make some returns from their investment. They claim that they are all prepared for a big season during the fall and winter of 1925.

Great numbers of salmon are being speared in the canal near the trestle of the Sacramento Northern Railway west of Elkhorn and on the county road leading to Woodland. It would seem these salmon came up along the dredger cut west of the West Sacramento levee and migrating up the old Tule Canal reached the canal along the trestle of the Sacramento Northern Railroad. Last Wednesday seventeen were speared by Sacramento fishermen who had heard that the salmon could be secured there. Inquiry was made at the Fish and Game Commission about catching the fish and information was afforded that any individual could secure three in thus spearing. The salmon are spawning in the old dredger cut along the county highway between Elkhorn and Woodland.

Sam Davis was arrested last Wednesday by Constable Wilson on the alleged crime of issuing bad checks. The warrant for his arrest was issued by a Justice of the Peace of Huntington Beach and Davis is now waiting for an officer from that point to be taken for trial.

Joe Allen was taken to Woodland County Hospital by Constable Wilson last Wednesday for medical treatment which is deemed necessary to save his life. Allen is about seventy-six years of age and has been making his home in Washington during the past three years.

Sheriff Monroe was a visitor in Washington yesterday on official business of the county.

A great New Year's feast was given by Joseph and Tony Valine at their home in West Sacramento, to which more than one hundred friends and relatives were invited. The event was such a large one that it is a surprise because of the magnificent feast that it escaped the ears of the Independent and is mentioned now only was put up by the Valine boys for their many friends. A great dinner of turkey and trimmings was supplied to all the friends during the afternoon and for the balance of the day a general dance was induged in with lots of god things to help along the occasion. Some of the older members of the party indulged in playing cards during the afternoon but most of the farmers in that locality enjoy a jazz dance once in a while, even going so far as to shimmy. Among those present were Manuel Foster and wife, J. S. Bell and wife, Tony Valine and wife, Joe Valine and wife, Tony Pimentel and wife, Frank Azevedo and wife, John Calderia and wife, Alfred Valine and wife, Frank Valine and wife, Alfred Bennett and wife, Leroy Bell and wife, King Bettencourt and wife, Manuel Valine, Mrs. A. P. Valine, Arthur White and wife, Manuel Nevis and wife. A host of youngsters were also present on the occasion who were supplied with all the sweetmeats that they could possibly consume.

Mrs. Reinersman has been confined to her bed during the past week suffering severly with the infirmities of age. So serious has her condition become that relatives fear for the worst especially because of her weakened condition. She is the mother of Mrs. P. A. Hart who is devoting all of her time and attention to her mother's care.

Joe Pereira declares that his West Sacramento Auto Camp is becoming noted for the number of people who are taking advantage of his accomodations and who evidently came from Ireland. The Rileys, the Murphys, the Crowleys, the Lawlers, the O'Briens and the O'Connells are camping at the West Sacramento Camp in great numbers and although they don't mix very well with the Portuguese, Pereira declares that they are much better pay. At any rate he is receiving his share of remuneration from the people of Ireland who are now traveling in automobiles where they formerly went around in a donkey's cart.

Next Sunday a wedding will take place at the West Sacramento Auto Camp but the Independent has been unable to secure the names of the bride and groom. Suffice it to say that the young people are of a nationality indicating that their forebears came from across the sea.

Miss Vera Klatz of Sacramento and Archie Lee Moffat of Washington were united in marriage last Monday in Stockton. Following the wedding ceremony the young couple departed for San Francisco. They expected to make their home here.

A. A. Dassonville is confined to his home by illness.

Mrs. A. A. Dassonville and daughter Helen returned home from a visit at Tres Pinos. They were accompanied by Mrs. Hilma Joseph and three daughters, who are now visiting Mr. and Mrs. I. K. Manchester.

Mrs. Olga Machado of Suisun is spending several days here visiting with her mother, Mrs. Catherine Caffaro.

The wife of a Congressman, suing for divorce, was forced to don a kimono in court the other day so that the court could see her.

Gee, what a snap those judges have.

To expedite delivery, Toronto bootleggers are building a pipe line into New York and another into Chicago.

It isn't half that bad in California.

WASHINGTON TAXPAYERS HAVE BACKING OF DOWNTOWN ASSOCIATION OF THE CITY OF SACRAMENTO IN ROAD QUESTION

The most remarkable thing about the hearing granted by the State Highway Commissioners to the taxpayers of Washington last Wednesday afternoon was the staunch support given by representatives of the downtown association of Sacramento to the contention that the State Highway through the town of Washington should lead to the Southern Pacific bridge rather than the M Street bridge.

James L. Flanagan owner of the Traveler's hotel represented the downtown association, and argued against the routing made by the highway engineers to carry the road to the M St. Bridge. He was accompanied and supported by Charles Merry, secretary of the downtown association.

Flanagan contended that the M St. bridge is not the proper place to cross the river for travel because of the condition, first of the bridge, and second the condition of the approaches to that bridge.

He declared that the Southern Pacific bridge crossing even though it is an elevated one is much preferable to the crossing on the M street bridge and suggested that when the Southern Pacific depot now under construction, is completed the angle near I Street will be straightened out to land vehicles on Second Street with a gradual incline that will not be strenous for loaded vehicles.

On convening the State Highway Commissioners were informed of what had already been done before the Board of Supervisors in Woodland about a month ago. Secretary Frank Mixon of the board advised the commissioners that an appropriation of $9,000 had been asked from the Yolo board of supervisors as its share of the expense of constructing a new subway under the Sacramento Northern enbankment at a point about five hundred feet west of the present subway. He advised the board that a delegation of Washington taxpayers had appeared at that meeting requesting postponement of the appropriation until such time as this hearing could be given so that the property owners of Washington could present their grievances against the routing of the highway to the M Street bridge.

Mr. Mixon explained that it seemed to be the unanimous sentiment of the people of Washington that they would be injured and out of pocket if they were taxed to build a subway and were then forced to relinquish that portion of the road which should run through the town.

Following Mixon's explanation, Dr. F. L. Atkinson, a large property owner of Washington took up the cudgels in favor of the road leading to the S. P. bridge. Dr. Atkinson made a good talk drawing attention to the dangerous condition of the entrance to the M Street bridge at both ends with a switching yard on the Sacramento side and several tracks and roadways criss-crossing each other at the western end.

As a representative of the Washington Booster's club, Joe Pereia declared that for years the taxpayers of Washington had been paying taxes for a state highway through the town but so far to this date have received no benefits, not even a respectable roadway through the community. He also drew attention to the fact that for years the taxpayers of Washington had been contributing without complaint to the redemption of highway bonds and interests on more bonds in the building of the Yolo Causeway. For the construction of this great piece of engineering work the taxpayers have been paying annually a great amount in interest, and yet, now that a roadway is about to be completed through the town it was mapped out to give the town the go by when it was most desirable.

The population of Washington warrants consideration with a population of eighteen hundred and an assessed valuation of $1,860,000.

In contravention of the argument made by Mr. Pereria the State Highway engineer Robert M. Morton drew attention to the fact that now it is the desire of the highway commissioners and the engineers to route the state highways outside small towns because in thus doing there is less danger to the population, less congestion and less possibility of accidents to growing children.

Against this contention Pereria again tackled the question saying that the incline of the Southern Pacific bridge could easily be straightened out and that the people of Washington would guard their children from the possibility of accidents provided that the state highway would be routed through the community.

J. J. McNally made a talk against conveying the roadway to the M Street bridge and suggested what he thought would be a better scheme, that is to say the building of a new bridge farther south than the M Street bridge to cross the Sacramento river at R Street or Y Street, thus avoiding all railroad crossings.

Thomas O'Connor a large interested property owner spoke against the routing of the road to the Southern Pacific bridge account the great congestion of traffic that will naturally come about at Second and I Streets in Sacramento when the new Southern Pacific depot is completed. O'Connor drew attention to the fact that right at the entrance to the bridge in Sacrameno fourteen hundred and fifty four street cars pass in every twenty-four hours making that place ever so much more dangerous than the crossing at the Sacramento side of the M Street bridge.

Buckingham as supervisor of this section of Yolo county introduced a map showing the roadway in connection with the Southern Pacific bridge and routed along the present line, namely along Fifth Street from the subway under the Southern Pacific tracks, thence east along the Southern Pacific tracks to the S. P. bridge, thus avoiding any grade crossing. He announced also that as a supervisor of Yolo county he would gladly do what he could to obtain this routing.

The State Highway Commissioners were kind enough to extend the time granted for this hearing by nearly ten minutes. Only half an hour had been allowed because several more hearings were to be given that afternoon but the Commissioners conceded a point giving the people of Washington every opportunity to explain their difficulties and desires.

Besides those mentioned above, there were present at the meeting representing the property owners of Washington ex-Supervisor E. A. Palm, Peter McGregor, Ray Peak, D. J. Silvey, Mrs. Joe Pereria, Mrs. J. McNevin and several others.

The commissioners did not announce before the close of the meeting what action they would take on changing the routing of the road as already planned and leading to the M Street bridge but the president, Harvey M. Toy did announce that the commissioners believed in the absolute necessity of a new subway under the Sacramento Northern enbankment.

BETTER MAIL SERVICE IS BADLY NEEDED IN WEST SACRAMENTO

Rural Route No. 8 out of Sacramento delivers mail tri-weekly on the State highway between Washington and Yolo Causeway and also along Jefferson Boulevard outside of West Sacramento city proper as far south as Riverview and thence along the river levee road back as far as West Sacramento headquarters.

This route was established out of the Sacramento postoffice last September and at that time a promise was made that when the delivery and pickup of mail on this route became sufficiently heavy a daily delivery would be made.

The delivery and pickup of mail on the route has not yet been sufficient to warrent a daily delivery and pickup but it is gradually growing with the anticipation that in the near future the postoffice authorities will see fit to establish this convenience.

As it is at the present time farmers and business people are put out somewhat because a tri-weekly delivery does not suit them very well, especially in the matter of receiving daily papers, magazines and similar mail.

Box owners on the route can help materially to bring about a daily delivery. They can leave their mail in their boxes for the letter carrier to pick up instead of taking them directly to the postoffice in Sacramento as is done very frequently. This encourages the authorities to extend a better service where a showing is made that better service is needed.

Subscribers to The Independent along the route who formerly received their papers on Saturday mornings are now sometimes forced to forego delivery until Monday morning and this fact is anything but agreeable because the farmer would put in his time or Sunday in gathering the news of his neighborhood from the columns of the local paper.

Even from a selfish motive the Independent urges its readers along this route to increase, in so far as possible, their deposits of mail in their proper boxes along the route.

MAYOR ELKUS HUNTS STOLEN PROPERTY IN RIVERBANK

WOODLAND, Jan. 10.—Constable Roy Hillhouse spent much of yesterday scouring the Riverbank district for property alleged to have been stolen from the Sacramento farm of Albert Elkus, mayor of the capital city. Hillhouse was unable to locate the stolen goods.

BOOSTER'S CLUB HAD QUIET MEETING TO PREPARE FOR BATTLE

The meeting of the Washington Boster's club at the town hall last Tuesday evening consisted mostly in preparationfor the appearance of representatives at the State Highway Commissioners hearing to be held on the following day.

Complaint was heard again that the culvert at the corner of Fourth and Harriet Streets is in bad shape needing repairs and in its present condition is backing up surface water into the basement of some homes in the neighborhood.

The meeting was enlivened to a great extent by the presence of Mrs. Hart a property owner in the West Sacramento district or Carly Acres. Mrs. Hart announced her intention of joining the club and becoming a Booster, not only for the town of Washington but for the growing section in the West Sacramento District known as Carly Acres.

It was resolved at the meeting of the Booster's club held last Tuesday evening that future meetings of the organizations would be held every Monday night at 8 p. m., and a cordial invitation was extended to all property owners in the district to be present and partake in the discussions concerning the advancement and prosperity of the town.

CHARGE AGAINST ESPINOZA DISMISSED

WOODLAND, Jan. 15. — Miguel Espenoza nearly wore out a pair of shoes walking between Washington, Yolo county, and Woodland, but Miguel says it was worth while.

He was charged with assault with a deadly weapon upon A. Fuller, and while in the county jail aided Sheriff J. W. Monroe to suppress a jail break on the part of W. P. Richards and Joe Duncan, convicted bank bandits. As a reward he was given his release on his own recognizance pending his trial.

He was summoned to Woodland three times by the authorities and each time he made the round trip of forty miles on foot. When he returned to Washington last night after the third round trip he carried an order dismissing the charges. Fuller had failed to show up in court yesterday and upon motion of District Attorney George T. Kern, Superior Judge W. A. Anderson ordered dismissal of the case without prejudice.

Representative in Congress Lineberger, who hails from Long Beach, wants to recommend a puritan from Los Angeles for the federal Judgeship in this section of the state.

Pointers For Parents

Besting Bullying

(NAPS)—As youngsters we all remember name-calling and teasing. The most common triggers for such abuse remain physical traits—hair, height, weight and teeth.

Most teasing subsides with age and most kids come out of those awkward years unscathed.

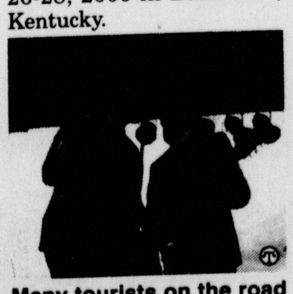

However, the National Association of School Psychologists estimates 160,000 children stay home from school daily because they fear harassment.

There are no guarantees that children will never encounter bullying or teasing, but children teased because of badly-positioned teeth can be helped. Orthodontists who provide early treatment can start to improve breathing, dental function and facial appearance of children as young as 3 or 4.

The British Journal of Orthodontics notes "The contribution of orthodontic treatment should not be underestimated where a conspicuous dentofacial deviation has attracted the hurtful mockery of peers."

Biggest Beatles Tribute Ever

(NAPS)—For Beatles fans and all music fans, all roads lead to Abbey Road on the River. The event is the largest celebration of Beatles music in the world. It will take place Memorial Day weekend, May 26-28, 2006 in Louisville, Kentucky.

Many tourists on the road this spring will discover all roads lead to Abbey Road on the River.

The first Abbey Road on the River in Louisville was a huge success, featuring 50 of the best Beatles bands from around the world on six stages. The three-day festival drew more than 18,000 visitors from nearly a dozen countries.

Louisville, the nation's 16th largest city, also attracts visitors from around the world as host to the Kentucky Derby. While in town, many will visit the just-opened Muhammad Ali Center, a long-awaited tribute to a city favorite son.

La descripción legal de los límites del Área del Proyecto, la Enmienda propuesta, el EIR, y el Informe de la Agencia al Concejo Municipal sobre la Enmienda, se encuentran a disposición para su análisis durante los horarios normales de trabajo en la oficina de la Agencia de Reurbanización de West Sacramento y en la oficina del Secretario Municipal, ubicada en el Centro Cívico de West Sacramento, 1110 West Capitol Avenue, en West Sacramento. SAVING FOR RETIREMENT JUST GOT BETTER

WITH A ROTH 401(k) OR ROTH 403(b).

Beginning Jan. 1, 2006, your employer may offer a new retirement plan option: the Roth 401(k)* or Roth 403(b),* which could play an important role in helping you make the most of your retirement income. As the names imply, both plans blend features of a familiar retirement savings plan – the Roth IRA – with the 401(k) or 403(b). These features include:

- No income limits
- Making contributions on an after-tax basis
- Paying no taxes on earnings from qualified withdrawals
- Making tax-free withdrawals as long as you are at least age 59½ and have had the account for more than five years
- Having your employer potentially make matching contributions
- Combining your contributions – Roth 401(k) and 401(k) or Roth 403(b) and 403(b) – subject to the current 401(k) or 403(b) deferral limits ($15,000 in 2006 or $20,000 if you are age 50 or older by the end of 2006)

Who Can Contribute?

If your employer offers a Roth 401(k) or Roth 403(b), anyone can contribute. You may want to consider this option if you:

- Earn more than the maximum Roth IRA limit
- Expect to be in the same or a higher income tax bracket at retirement

Most experts agree that you may benefit from a Roth 401(k) or Roth 403(b) if you expect to have a higher income tax rate in the future. That's because with a Roth 401(k) or Roth 403(b), you pay taxes now with the Roth option rather than paying taxes in the future when you make a withdrawal from a 401(k) or 403(b) retirement plan.

Edward Jones can help determine whether contributing to a Roth 401(k) or Roth 403(b) makes sense for you. Contact your local Edward Jones investment representative today.

*As part of the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001, the Roth 401(k) and Roth 403(b) provisions are set to expire in 2010, unless Congress extends or eliminates the deadline prior to that time.

IS YOUR CHECKBOOK MORE BALANCED THAN YOUR 401(k)?

Most brokers will tell you that investing in a 401(k) is an important way to save for retirement. What few bother to say is that it's not enough just to have a 401(k).

To get the most from your 401(k) when you retire, you have to actively manage it now. We can help.

At Edward Jones, we'll work with you to help ensure that your 401(k) portfolio accurately fits your goals. That way, your 401(k) will work for you, not the other way around.

To learn how Edward Jones can help you make sense of your 401(k), call today.

DON'T LET AMT CATCH YOU OFF GUARD THIS TAX SEASON.

You may be one of many taxpayers this tax season facing an extra tax on top of your regular income tax – the alternative minimum tax (or AMT). The original idea behind this tax was to prevent people with high incomes from using special tax benefits to pay little or no tax. But more people each year are affected by the AMT, including some people who don't have high incomes or many special tax benefits. Congress is studying ways to correct this problem, but until it does, more and more taxpayers will likely be affected by this tax in the future.

What Is the AMT?

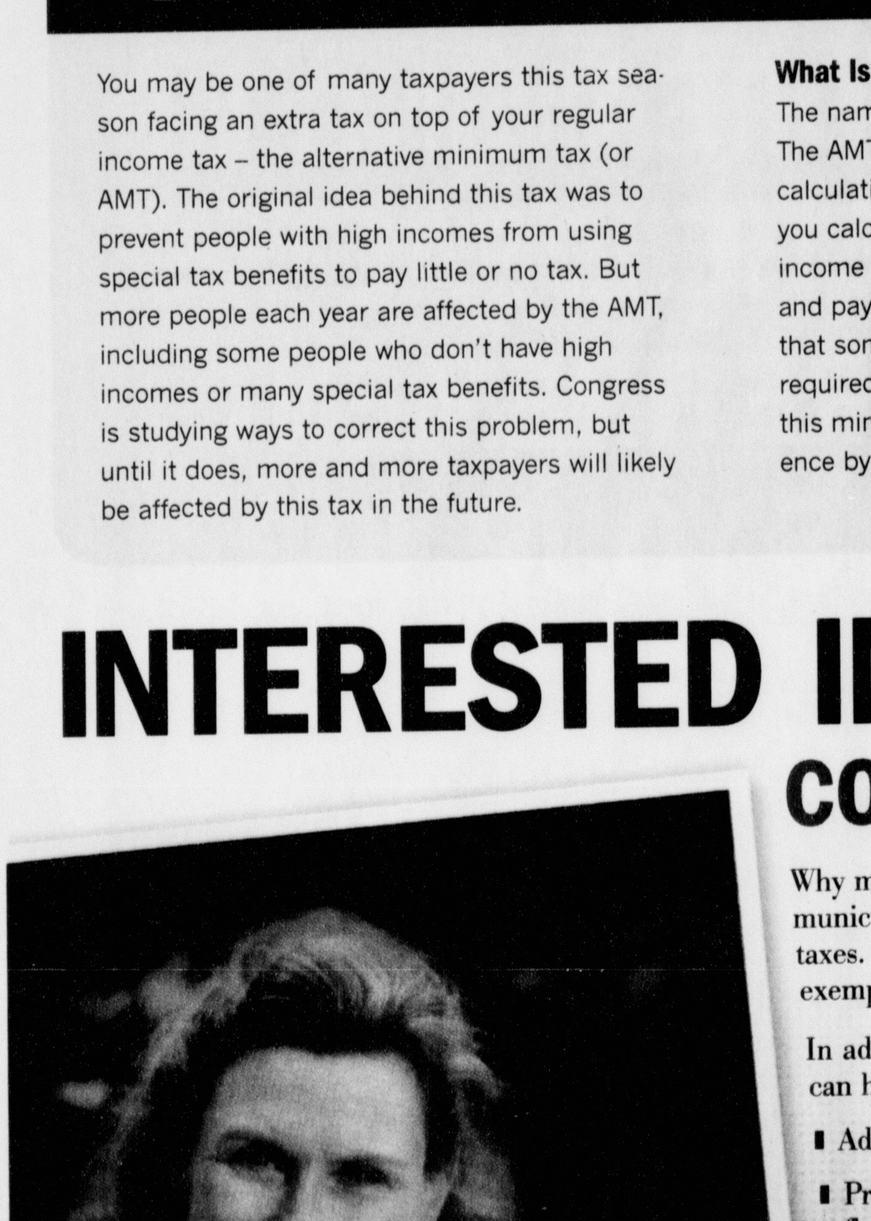

The name comes from the way the tax works. The AMT provides an alternative set of rules for calculating your income tax. Under this system, you calculate your taxes under both the regular income tax guidelines and the AMT guidelines, and pay at least the minimum amount of tax that someone with your income should be required to pay. If your regular tax falls below this minimum, you have to make up the difference by paying the alternative minimum tax.

Don't Go It Alone

Remember that most taxpayers are not subject to the AMT. Your local Edward Jones investment representative will work with your tax adviser to help you select investments that can help you achieve your goals and are less likely to trigger the AMT. Your team of professionals also can help develop strategies that help limit the possibility you'll owe the AMT in the future, if necessary.

INTERESTED IN TAX-FREE INCOME?

CONSIDER MUNICIPAL BONDS.

Why municipal bonds?* Because income from municipal bonds is usually exempt from federal taxes. In some cases, your interest also may be exempt from state and local income taxes.

In addition, these quality investments can help:

- Add diversification to your portfolio
- Provide balance and cushion possible equity fluctuations
- Provide a consistent income stream during the life of the bond

It's important to look beyond the stated interest rate on tax-free municipal bonds. Although these investments seemingly offer lower rates of return when compared to taxable investments – as the following chart illustrates – that's not always the case.

We can show how you could potentially earn more from a municipal bond than you would net after taxes on a taxable investment. To get started on reducing next year's tax bill, call your local Edward Jones investment representative today.

*May be subject to the alternative minimum tax. Yield and market value may fluctuate if sold prior to maturity. The amount received from the sale of these securities may be less than the amount originally invested. Call features also should be considered. Bond values may decline in a rising interest rate environment.

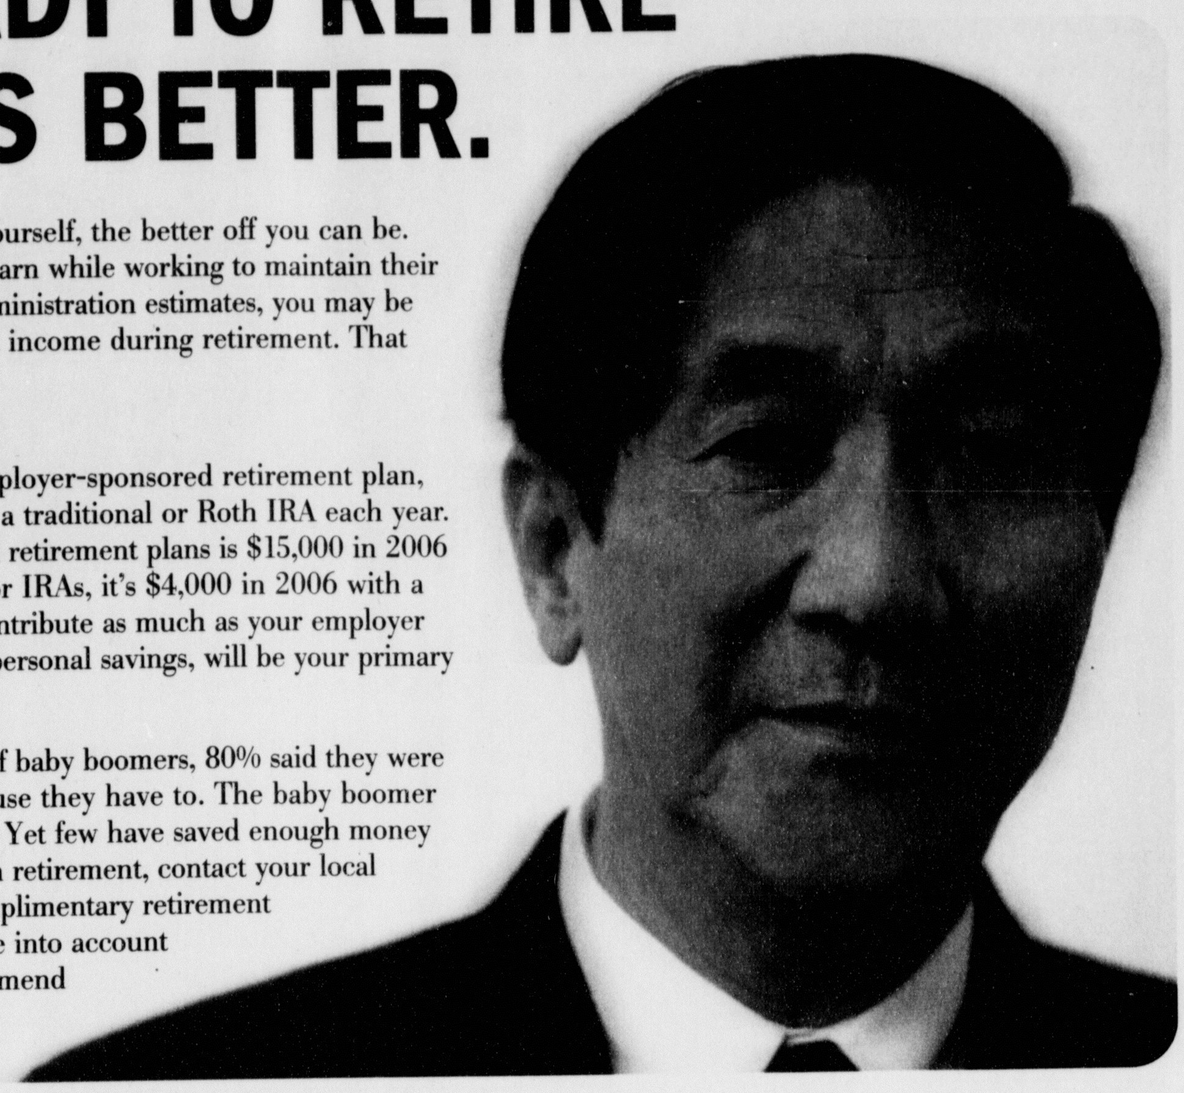

The taxable equivalent yield is the interest you would have to earn on a fully taxable investment in order to equal the yield a tax-free municipal bond provides.

YOU CAN BE READY TO RETIRE OR NOT. READY IS BETTER.

It's never too early to plan for retirement. The more time you give yourself, the better off you can be. Many experts agree that retirees may need 70% to 80% of what they earn while working to maintain their standard of living during retirement. And based on Social Security Administration estimates, you may be able to count on Social Security for only 40% of your pre-retirement income during retirement. That could leave a significant shortfall.

How You Can Help Fill the Gap

It's generally a good idea to contribute as much as you can to an employer-sponsored retirement plan, such as a 401(k), Roth 401(k), 403(b), Roth 403(b) or 457, as well as a traditional or Roth IRA each year. The contribution limit for the above-mentioned employer-sponsored retirement plans is $15,000 in 2006 with a catch-up contribution of $5,000 if you are age 50 or older. For IRAs, it's $4,000 in 2006 with a catch-up contribution of $1,000. At the very minimum, you should contribute as much as your employer will match. These plans, along with income from a pension plan and personal savings, will be your primary sources of retirement income.

However, these sources may not be enough. In a 2001 AARP survey of baby boomers, 80% said they were planning to work past age 65, at least part time. Many will work because they have to. The baby boomer generation has every expectation to live longer than the previous one. Yet few have saved enough money for 20 years of full retirement. To help you develop a plan for living in retirement, contact your local Edward Jones investment representative. He or she can provide a complimentary retirement review using several computer-based calculation tools to help you take into account your estimated expenses and income sources in retirement and recommend ways to help you make the most of your retirement savings.

To determine whether an Edward Jones Personal Line of Credit makes sense for you, contact your local investment representative today.

*Your Edward Jones Personal Line of Credit is a margin account. Borrowing against securities has risks and is not appropriate for everyone. If the value of your collateral declines, you may be required to deposit cash or additional securities, or the securities in your account may be sold to meet the margin call. Interest begins to accrue from the loan date and is charged to your account. Available only on certain types of accounts.

YOU SHOULD GET AS MUCH OUT OF YOUR RETIREMENT AS YOU PUT INTO YOUR BUSINESS.

To build your business, you've invested time, effort and money. Although owning your own business can be extremely rewarding, it also presents unique challenges, one of which may be your company's retirement plan.

If your business doesn't have a retirement plan, now is a good time to think about adding one to take advantage of a tax deduction for the contributions that you make for yourself and your family. In fact, the tax benefits you receive can make the cost of the plan worthwhile.

Other Advantages

- Tax-deferred earnings to help you save for retirement
- A variety of investment choices, such as mutual funds, stocks and bonds
- Diversifying assets beyond your business
- The ability to attract and retain key employees

Keep in mind that each business retirement plan has different features and advantages. There are several types of business retirement plans you may want to consider.

Businesses with No Employees

- SEP IRA – Consider a SEP if you want a low-cost, easy-to-maintain retirement plan. You can contribute up to 25% of your compensation or $42,000 (for 2005), which is tax-deductible, into the plan. You also have the flexibility to change your business's contribution amounts each year.
- Owner-only 401(k) – Available if your business employs only you and your spouse. You can contribute up to 25% of your compensation or $44,000 (for 2006) into the plan, which is tax-deductible to the business, as well as make tax-deductible deferrals above the 25% limit. If you're age 50 or older, you can make a catch-up contribution.
- Owner-only Defined Benefit – With this plan, you may be able to make tax-deductible contributions of more than $100,000 per year, which is in excess of the dollar limit or the 25% compensation limit of a SEP or an Owner-only 401(k) plan.

Businesses with Employees

- SIMPLE IRA – The SIMPLE IRA lets you offer a salary deferral plan without the cost or administrative responsibilities associated with traditional 401(k) plans. SIMPLE IRAs also let you and your employees make regular contributions in addition to your business making small required contributions.
- Safe Harbor 401(k) – If your business makes small required contributions, this plan lets you and your employees make regular contributions with a higher limit than a SIMPLE IRA.
- "Tiered" Safe Harbor 401(k) – Similar to a Safe Harbor 401(k) and SIMPLE IRA, this plan lets you and your employees make regular contributions. However, in addition to your business making small required contributions, it can make higher contributions for you and your key employees that other plans won't allow.

For more information about these and other retirement plans, talk with your local Edward Jones investment representative and tax adviser. Together, we can help you determine a plan that's right for you and your business.

Already Have a Plan?

If your business already has a retirement plan, now is a great opportunity to review it. Edward Jones can help you check to make sure you're taking advantage of increased contribution opportunities. Changes in your business and staff also could mean that your current plan no longer fits your needs.

DOING YOUR HOMEWORK NOW CAN HELP YOU PREPARE FOR EDUCATION COSTS LATER.

The road to college starts with a savings plan. According to collegeboard.com, if costs continue to rise approximately 6% a year (the average increase for the past 10 years), the total cost to send your child or grandchild if he or she were born today to a private four-year college will be roughly $325,000 in 18 years. For a public four-year college in your state, reduce that amount by half.

The first step is to take advantage of our free College Calculator, which can estimate the anticipated expenses, including tuition fees and room and board, of more than 3,000 U.S. colleges and universities, depending on the child's age. Based on this estimate, Edward Jones can recommend several strategies to help you pay for education expenses, including:

529 Plans[1]

- Tax-deferred growth potential
- Tax-free withdrawals of earnings for qualified education expenses
- Higher contribution limits – up to $11,000[2] annually per beneficiary and, in some cases, $55,000[2] in a single year[3]
- The ability to save for both college and graduate school expenses
- An opportunity to remove assets from your estate and avoid possible estate taxes

Coverdell Education Savings Accounts[4]

- Tax-deferred growth potential
- Tax-free withdrawals of earnings for qualified education expenses
- Contributions up to $2,000 annually per beneficiary, depending on income level
- The ability to save for kindergarten through graduate school expenses

Zero Coupon Bonds

- Potential exemptions from state and local taxes
- The ability to sell prior to maturity at their current market value[5]

An Edward Jones Personal Line of Credit[6]

- The ability to write your own loan against the value of your investments
- An option to repay the loan at a schedule you determine

Your local Edward Jones investment representative can help you choose the most appropriate investments and type of account based on your child's or grandchild's age, the amount you are able to invest, your tax situation and your risk tolerance.

1 The tax benefits stated herein for 529 plans are effective through 2010, unless extended by Congress. Withdrawals used for expenses other than qualified education expenditures may be subject to federal, state and penalty taxes. Contributions are tax-deductible in certain states for residents who participate in their state's plan. Please note that a 529 plan may reduce a beneficiary's ability to qualify for financial aid. An investment in a 529 plan will fluctuate such that an investor's shares when redeemed may be worth more or less than the original investment.

2 The annual gift exclusion amount and the special gifting provision are expected to increase to $12,000 and $60,000, respectively, in 2006.

3 Special gifting provisions apply. No additional contributions for the next four years. Please consult your tax adviser.

4 The ability to contribute to a Coverdell account is phased out for single filers with adjusted gross income between $95,000 and $110,000 and for joint filers with adjusted gross income between $190,000 and $220,000. Termination Rule – Any balance remaining in the account must be distributed or rolled over to another family member when the beneficiary reaches age 30 or dies. Penalty for Withdrawal – Distributions that exceed qualified education expenses are subject to a 10% penalty, unless due to death, disability or scholarship.

5 If sold prior to maturity, the value could be more or less than your original investment. Zero coupon bonds react with more volatility to changes in interest rates than coupon-paying bonds. Interest income from the bonds is subject to taxes annually even though no payment will be received by the investor.

6 A Personal Line of Credit is a margin account. Borrowing against securities has risks and is not appropriate for everyone. If the value of your collateral declines, you may be required to deposit cash or additional securities, or the securities in your account may be sold to meet the margin call. Interest begins to accrue from the loan date and is charged to your account. Available only on certain types of accounts.

Because tax issues for 529 plans, Coverdell accounts and zero coupon bonds can be complicated, please consult your tax adviser.

*Corporate bond yields and maturity effective as of 2/16/06, subject to availability and price change. Yield and market value may fluctuate if sold prior to maturity, and the amount received from the sale of these securities may be less than the amount originally invested. Some of the available issues are callable. Your local Edward Jones investment representative can provide more information about maturity dates and applicable call provisions.

WHAT WILL YOU LEAVE YOUR HEIRS?

As daunting as it may seem, it's important that you create an estate plan to protect the assets you've worked for over the years. It may sound complicated, but estate planning is simply creating a plan to carry out your wishes after your incapacitation or death.

Because you can't predict the future, we recommend that you create and regularly review a basic estate plan that includes:

- A will – Specifies how you want your assets distributed. If you have minor children, a will lets you choose their guardian.
- Durable and health care power of attorney – Identifies and empowers an individual to make financial and health care decisions on your behalf should you become incapacitated.
- Health care directive/living will – Provides directions in advance about whether to continue, withhold or withdraw life-prolonging procedures when you are unable to do so. This is also known as a health care advance directive or health care proxy.
- Living trust – Created during your lifetime, this set of instructions outlines how you want your assets managed and distributed to your beneficiaries if you become incapacitated or die.

Generally, additional estate planning is necessary if your estate's total value is more than the maximum amount (your applicable exclusion amount). This is the amount you may transfer to beneficiaries without incurring estate taxes. You may need to include strategies to help reduce the size of your taxable estate and plan for paying estate taxes and other expenses.[1]

For more information on how Edward Jones and Edward Jones Trust Company[2] can work with you and your tax and legal advisers to develop or update your estate plan, contact your local Edward Jones investment representative today.
